DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to because the fabric recitation lacks an antecedent basis. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cho (US 6,055,699). Cho is considered to disclose the claimed device comprising:

a first surface 48 coupled to the device;

a second surface 56 coupled to the device and configured to penetrate fabric;

and

an extraction slot 50 formed by the first and second surface. Cho is also considered to disclose the claimed carpeted surface or fabric (column 1 lines 13-25) and wherein the first surface further comprises a plurality of channels extending toward the extraction slot, the plurality of channels configured to force liquid towards the extraction slot (column 5 lines 11-25).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3749

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148

USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 3-6 and 8-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cho in view of Haynie (US 6,266,892). Cho is considered to disclose the claimed invention, as discussed above under the anticipatory rejection, except for the claimed V-shaped cross section and substantially circular or rectangular with rounded edges.

Haynie is considered to disclose a V-shaped cross section in figure 2 and a substantially circular or rectangular with rounded edges in figure 8. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to combine the teachings of Cho, with the V-shaped cross section and substantially circular or rectangular with rounded edges, considered disclosed by Haynie for the purpose of optimally streamlining a vacuum head device for removing a greater percentage of fluids from a desired surface.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. References B-G, cited in this action are considered to disclose surfaces coupled to a device for fluid extraction.
